

DIRES TRAINING

Diabetes Information, Referral & Education Specialists Training

DIRES training prepares non-professionals, para-professionals and health care professionals to provide information regarding diabetes and other health-related issues.

Trainees learn how to:

- Impart key messages for diabetes self-management
- Identify resources needed by people with diabetes
- Help the people with diabetes access those resources.

Want to gain valuable knowledge and skills that will help you become more efficient at your job and move you forward in your career?
